 Miracles In Acts to Revelation - Part 4

The miracles of the Lord's resurrection and ascension are not included in this section even though mention is made of them throughout the epistles. The following is a list of the miracles that occurred, or the means by which they will occur from Pentecost to the eternal state. There is not included in this the visions, such as the man from Macedonia (Acts 9:12-16; 16:9; 18:9-10) which I see as divine communication. Others will see such as a miracle and it is simply a matter of perception. Neither can be said to be right and neither can be said to be wrong. Miracles performed in the Old Testament, even though they are mentioned in the epistles, are not mentioned in this list.

It must be understood that a miracle does not prove the truth of a teaching, neither does it endorse the divine authority of the "miracle worker". This is proven by the words of the Lord to the false prophets (Matt. 7:21-23). Furthermore, the beast, the "wicked" man of sin (2 Thess. 2:8) does miracles called "lying wonders" (2 Thess. 2:9), and the false prophet also does miracles (Rev. 13:13). Both of these are unsaved men.

That which it does is put the listener or observer into the position where they must "try the spirits" (1 Jn. 4:1), and that is done by determining whither that being taught by the "miracle worker" is according to the scriptures and the exclusive person of the Lord. Jesus is the Christ (1 Jn. 5:1; 2:22), Jesus is the Son of God (1 Jn. 4:15), and any man or woman who teaches that any other is the Christ is antichrist (in other words they are not saved irrespective of what miracles they do. We must make no mistake and think or say that all the miracles worked by such persons are fake. The Lord never disputes the reality of the miracles (Matt. 7:21-23). When John wrote his first epistle there were false teachers as there are today.

When reviewing the Revelation I was not sure whither to specify every vision, for each was a miracle, but decided to treat almost the entire book as a miracle and only specify certain of the more prominent ones in those future days. Miracles such as divine grace are not included.
